

TEACHING KIDS TO READ

Basic skills for Australian & NZ parents & teachers

by Fay Tran

'Grammar is back. The reading wars are over, with a proper emphasis on phonics.'—Julia Gillard, Deputy PM & Education Minister, November 2009

'Her approach to their problems reveals a thorough understanding of how children learn.'—Assoc. Professor Peter Westwood

ISBN 9780980607055, $29.99 (pbk), 176 pages, large format

- Simple, practical guide to teaching Aussie kids how to read and write using phonics
- Assumes no prior knowledge—anyone can teach it!
- The first Australian book to conform to Australia's new National Curriculum, which starts in all schools in 2011
- All states press, radio and TV author appearances arranged by Alan Davidson Publicity
- Perfect for children with learning difficulties
- Illustrated, with case studies
- Tried and tested methods developed over 25 years at one of Victoria's top schools

Teaching Kids to Read is a book designed to have an impact on every school-age child in Australia, and their parents and teachers.

Learning to read and write is the most important skill a child needs to acquire—everything else they do in life depends on it, including their schooling, tertiary studies and future employment.

In 2011, Australia will have a National Curriculum for the first time and the first and most vital component will be teaching literacy using phonics—an easy-to-follow sound and visual system that went out of fashion in the 1980s but is now back with a bang. Phonics will be the preferred method of teaching reading in the new National Curriculum.

Fay Tran's Teaching Kids to Read is the first book to explain how ordinary Australian parents with no teaching background themselves can use this method to teach their kids how to read. It will also bring phonics to the generation of teachers who missed out on phonics during the 'reading wars' of the 1980s and 1990s.

Friendly, clear instructions are accompanied by case studies that illustrate the amazing transformations to kids' confidence and learning that are possible using this method.

While phonics is especially powerful for children with learning difficulties, Fay Tran's book applies equally well to children of all capabilities.

Passionately argued, Teaching Kids to Read is not only an essential handbook for every Australian parent and teacher, but also a compelling manifesto for a literate Australia.

About the author

Debut author Fay Tran is a specialist literacy teacher with over 25 years' experience in helping children of all abilities with their learning difficulties. Fay has just retired in 2010 from Victoria's top school, Geelong Grammar. Teaching Kids to Read represents the fruit of a lifetime's passion for literacy.

Further information: Anna Wilkins (anna@wilkinsfarago.com.au, tel 0400 523 852)